

Kathy Oline currently serves as Senior Assistant Director for Tax Policy for the Washington State Department of Revenue. She oversees the Department's Research and Legislative Analysis and Interpretations and Technical Advice divisions and has overall responsibility for the development of agency tax policy.

Kathy has been with the Department of Revenue for over 22 years and has held various positions in the Department. Most recently, she has served as Interim Assistant Director of the Research Division. She has also held various positions within the Audit Division. She holds a BA in Accounting and Finance from Western Washington University (1988).